Mexicans Appeal to Him as Probable Secretary.

Ask Six Months' Grace for the President.

Conference in Miami With the "Commoner."

(BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE

An appeal to William J. Bryan to give the Madero government six months to work out its difficulties has recently been conveyed to the commoner by a trusted friend of President Madero.

The appeal was made to Mr. Bryan as the prospective Secretary of State in the Wilson Cabinet and the man who would most probably dominate the course of this government in foreign relations after March 4.

News of the message sent to Mr. Bryan came out today. The message was sent within the last ten days, the messenger of Madero besought Bryan to have this government pursue a neutral course and withhold its band from intervention for six months. At the end of that time, he made it clear, if order was not restored or assured, then the United States could take the course that seemed to be most necessary from its viewpoint.

American citizens and their interests are so very numerous."

In the event of a crisis demanding naval intervention there are about 4000 men at Guantanamo avaliable for shore duty and the Navy Department could send to each coast more than 3000 marines from the Guantanamo Station and Panama.

Unofficial assurances reached the State Department that Gen. Felix Diaz will protect foreign interests throughout the republic. This demand has been made by the American Embassy, and there will be no interference on the part of this government if it is respected.

Ambassador Wilson reported early today that he had taken prompt action to safeguard American interests, but throughout the day no word came from him. The State Department was forced to rely largely upon the press

The figures of statistician George Leslie of the State Board of Health show that during 1912 the marriages increased by 14.5 per cent against 9.5 per cent, the amount of increase in 1911, the previous banner year. The number of marriages last year was 31,276, an increase of 3973 for the State.

In the seven year period since registration began the only decrease in marriages was for 1908, when leap year shyness, Leslie says, and general business depression proved to be bars to matrimony. The remarkable gain in marriages for the last leap year, 1912, are ascribed by Leslie to the enfranchisement of California women or to general good times.

The Webb bill would prohibit ship

State to another when intended to be received or sold in violation of the law of the State to which the shipment is made.

Efforts will be made to have the public concur in the Senate hill, which differs from the bill passed by the Heuse only in number. Should that be done, the bills would not be considered in conference, but the bill passed by the Senate would go to the President for his signature.

VIVA VOCE VOTE.

The substitution of the Webb bill as the order of the say did not permit the voting on the Webb bill as an independent measure.

The voting was first upon the perfection of the Kenyon-Sheppard bill. By a vote of 61 to 23 the Senate agreed to the committee amendment adding a section to the bill which provided in terms that intoxicating liquors should become subject to State laws upon creasing State boundaries. Senator Hitchcock's amendment to accept liquor intended for personal use was defeated without a recall, and one by Senator O'Gorman excepting liquor for personal and sacramental use likewise was defeated by 31 to 50. Senator Kenyon succeeded in having his measure amended to become operative July 1, 1915. Thereupon Senator Gaillinger asked for the substitution of the Webb bill for the Senate measure. He likewise succeeded in having the title amended so as to bring the houses in accord except as to the number of the bill. Senator Webb of Tennessee made a speech in favor of the bill. "Men, cattle and sheep are stopped at State lines when they threaten to bring disease with them, so why not stop intoxicating liquors?" he asked.

A HARD FIGHT.

VITTY CHEATHAM IS TO RETURN. Mucklow were met in the mountains by a posse under Fred Lester, a former captain of the West Virginia National Guard, now in the employ of a coal company. A sharp engagement followed. A book-keeper and two-mine guards were shot dead and several others injured. Lester and his men were slowly driven back. Reinforcements of guards from other mine companies, railroad police and deputy sheriffs joined Lester's men, but they could not check the advance of the miners.

Kitty Cheatham very wisely believes that it is not necessary to ransack the Orient and the Occident for new stories to instruct, amuse old boys and young ones, and girls of all ages.

"The Little Gray Lamb" of Archibald Sullivan, or George Ingraham's "The Owl and the Pussy Cat." are just as new today as ever, because they carry within them a message easily understood by young and eld. "The Plaint of the Little Bisque Doll" is for girls and H. W. Loomis's "The Wiggly-Waggly Polliwog," from Kellar's elfin songs of sun, is probably for boys. Yet fathers, mothers and aunts enjoyed them all keenly as they saw their own early impressions mirrored in the smilling faces of babes.

Miss Cheatham's stories certainly stimulate the imagination of young boys, since "The Sleep Child," the "Froggles's Lullaby," by George B. Carpenter of this city, by the way, who composed it specially for Miss Pussy Cheater:

On yonder hill, not very far off. A little frogg died with th hookin cof."

who composed it specially for Miss Cheatham, inspired this flow of poercy:

"To Miss Pussy Cheater:
On yonder hill, not very far off A little frogg died with th' hookin' cof."

No programme is without some old negro songs and stories, because Miss Cheatham believes that we should be reminded of these picturesque people and remember their delightful folksongs, now fast vanishing.

Rudyard Kipling is one of her great favorites and she gives in a most attractive manner the story of the camel's hump, preceded by a prologue better than the story itself, as Miss Cheatham points naturally and adirectly to the moral of the story in a manner that is altogether unique. "The camel got his hump, you see, because he was so 'scruciatin' idie an said 'humph' all the time."

For the grown-ups, this artist is possessed of a natural charm of culture, bigness of heart and sentiment which is reflected in her musical and sympathetic 'voice. Her gestures are sober and telling as well.

But it is to children that she appeals, as well as to their elders.

"What did you like best." I inquired of an able critic, my little friend, is Kathryn, aged 12. "I liked the songs so good and the stories, too," she said. "but I liked about the best of all the doll that had a pain in her side. I am so glad I came to hear and I could come again, but she would get tired of it, if I came as often as I would like to. All the people I knew were there; papa liked it and everybody liked it, too. It is one of the best concerts I ever went to."

This is the most lucid comment that could be given on Kitty Chestham's idelightful matinee.

It will cost you more money after February 15th to buy one of those beautiful, high-class home-sites at West View Terrace than it does today considerably more.

Today, West View Terrace offers you the only high-grade sites out Washington street way at under the market prices.

In fact, adjoining unimproved acreage is being held at higher prices than our handsomely improved property.

West View Terrace is not a "new tract"—it is adorned with beautiful homes—some of them costing up to $10,000.00. Brisk building activity and the installation of the best type of improvements has heavily increased values. Present prices are almost absurdly low—this is not mere idle advertising talk—go out and price adjoining unimproved property. It will cost you up to $6000 per acre.

Then see what we offer you in West View Terrace at $1125 per lot. Here are some West View Terrace features: The city's best car line; 25-minute trip; straight to the business district and all schools, churches and theaters without a single transfer; five cent fare; gas, water, electricity; poles in rear of lots; excellent street and cement work; wide parkings, ornamental trees, etc. Every lot actually $400 under real value. Call at down-town office for maps, folder and all information. Or board Washington Street car and get off at end of line. Representatives on the ground. Auto trips to property by appointment.

First and Refunding Mortgage Sinking Fund Thirty-Year Five Per Cent Gold Bonds TAX EXEMPT IN CALIFORNIA AND LEGAL FOR CALIFORNIA SAVINGS BANKS ted December 1, 1910. Due December 1, 1940, without option of prior payment. Interest parable June 1 and December 1 in New York or Los Angeles. Coupon bonds of $1000 each with privilege of registration as to principal. Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, Trustee.

The Los Angeles Railway Corporation does the entire local electric street railway business, with a system comprising over 371 miles of track, in the City of Los Angeles and the rapidly growing suburban section southwest, serving a population now estimated at 450,000.

NET EARNINGS APPROXIMATELY TWICE ANNUAL BOND INTEREST CHARGE

For particulars of this issue we refer to a letter of Mr. H. E. Huntington, President of the Copies of which may be had on request and which states that—

The bonded indebtedness of the Company, after deducting sinking funds, amost to $19,565,000. The First and Refunding 5's are part of an authorised issue of $20,000, of which $14,270,000 are now outstanding and $230,000 are held in sinking funds additional bonds can be issued under this mortgage except to retire at par the present the present of the

The First and Refunding Mertgage 5's are secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on more than 85 miles of track, a substantial part of the car and power equipment, and a large proportion of the Company's real estate. The bonds are also secured by a direct mortgage on all other property of the Company, subject only to the underlying bonds, and, on about two and one-half miles of track, to a mortgage ($500,000) of the Los Angeles & Redondo Railway Company. Negotiations are now in progress and should soon be consummated whereby this mortgage will be cancelled and released of record.

Under the provisions of the mortgage, the Corporation is required to make fund payments amounting to $120,000 per annum, which it is estimated will be to retire over $7,000,000 of this issue prior to maturity.

WE RECOMMEND THESE BONDS FOR INVESTMENT.

OS ANGELES PEACE OFFICER A CAPTIVE.

Chief says that he has wired the Jefe Politico at Ensenada for permission to transfer the wounded man to San Diego, that he may receive better care. Chief Wilson of the San Diego force has given his word that Rankin will be returned to the Mexican authorities as soon as he is able. The attending physicians say that unless Rankin can be rushed to a San Diego hospital, the probability is that he will die within a few hours.

Guy L. Rockwell, another peace officer from this city, was arrested and held a prisoner after the midnight shooting of his companion, but yesterday the pressure became too great upon the Tia Juana authorities and Rockwell was released upon the assurance of Dist-Atty. Fredericks that he would be produced when wanted.

Late yesterday afternoon Capt.
Predericks filed long telegrams to President Taft and Atty-Gen. Wickersham reciting the details of the crime: the fact that Rankin is held a prisoner at the peril of his life, and asking for instructions in the premises. Fredericks would not give out the full text of the telegrams. "It would not be proper for me to do so," he said, "prior to their receipt by the Federal authorities."

In view of the present disturbed conditions at the Mexican capital, it is deemed extremely doubtful if any diplomatic negotiations can be conducted. Felix Diaz has proclaimed himself provisional President, but the sovernment is in chaos, and a maiter of this kind would receive scant attention, if, indeed, there is anyone to whom it may be presented, or with authority to carry out an order from the revolutionary leaders.

If the Tia Juana authorities remain obdurate and insist on retaining Rankin a prisoner for some reason best known to themselves, a proyost guard of United States soldiers may be requisitioned to teach them a little lesson, in the opinion of an onficial.

Answers Description of Missing Man From Pittaburgh.

That the corpse found hanging under the Dragon's Gorge at Ocean Park last April and buried by Mrs.
Minta I. Jordan as that of her husband, C. W. Jordan, was Elmer R.
Forwood seems certain, in the light of communications received yesterday by Detective Browne from Chief Reynolds of Pittaburgh, who had been asked to help investigate.

Reynolds interviewed Mrs. Forwood, who is living in New Orleans under her maiden name, and from her description there can be little doubt that the body upon which Mrs.

Jordan collected $5050 life insurance was that of Forwood. The latter was a mechanic and later bought "concessions" for sideshow ventures, which carried him all over the East.

He left his wife in 1910 and she heard that he had come west.

Franklin was given additional examination by Assistant District Attorney Ford on lines brought out by the cross-examination of the defense. The State's attorney endeavored to show by the witness that Franklin was acting in the interests of Darrow up to the time he made his alleged confession to the District Attorney.

"No, sir."

meaning presumably he would have turned it over to the District Attorney.

Aside from McManigal's testimony, there were few features in the trial yesterday. Franklin was again on the stand, but nothing especially new developed.

Testimony partially adduced at the former trial made it appear that Darrow told Franklin that Attorney Davis told him that Detective Samuel Browne warned him to beware of some trap on the morning of November 28. Browns denied positively that he ever gave the other side any inkling of the plan to catch Franklin. Davis also denied at the former trial that he received any telephone warning. He will probably give similar testimony later on.

CASE GOES RAPIDLY.

The defense did not take the trouble to cross-examine some of the witnesses yesterday. There were no wrangles between counsel and the evidence was put on rapidly. Frequently when Judge Conley thought sufficient testimony was adduced on a certain point he eliminated needless resettion.

No more lawyers will be retained by Darrow. He has charge of the cross-examination with the assistance of former Judge Powers. H. J. Gelsler has been assigned to look up the legal questions. He was engaged in similar work in the first trial. W. H. Dehn, an associate of Rogers, will be in court as much of the time as his other engagements permit. This gives Darrow, including himself, four able attorneys, against three for the State.

As a part of this plan, Tomas L. Duque, Consul for Panama, and Honduras, was invested with the title of dean of the corps, and E. J. Louis, Vice-Consul for Peru, was elected secretary and treasurer. who returned yesterday from the school.

Johnnie escaped twice, once from his ward and a second time from the attic in which he had been sequestered—the school "jail." He hid all one day under the bandstand in the courtyard, while frantic search was made for him; he went to town for food late at night and was fed and sent back; and on the way up he picked the pockets of various passengers in the Pullman.

When Miss Parker took Johnnie to his first breakfast on the dining car she found he had stolen her officer's star from her berth, had put it on and "arrested" half the passengers on the train before she was up. When she claimed it again he repeatedly threw back her coat lapel to show it, proclaiming on streets and in hotels that she was an officer and could "pinch de house" without half trying.

THE AUTOMOBILE IN GERMANY. In a recent speech Prince Henry of Prussia called attention to the fact that, notwithstanding Germany's wonderful percial progress, there are fewer motor cars in Germany according to population than in any of the other large countries. In France there is one automobile for every 180 people. In England there is one for every 249, but in Germany the percentage is one per thousand. He did not give any figures for the United States, but assured his listeners that we all ride in automobiles ere. We certainly seem to in Los An-eles. We can better any of the above gures by a very long way. One dealer by a very long way. One dealer insists that we have here an automobile for every fifty inhabitants, which is not a MEANS OF SUPPORT.

A man without any "visible means of support," is liable to arrest as a vagrant. Legally $3 in cash exempts a man from the charge of vagrancy. Actually, it is imossible to say how much is needed to rove an individual self-helpful. Dr. Tanner with his forty-day fast record vent his becoming a charge on the com-munity. He made starvation an instru-ment for collecting coin. A poet is sup-posed to live on fancies; very few of them worth three dollars; the fancies-if the poet-are often vagrant enough to call for arrest. Then a legless man might be a productive citizen though he could fairly be classified as having no visible means of support. Some legal terms are

POPE AND MIKADO.

The wonderful spirit of humanity animating the whole world today is strikingly brought before us by the invitation tendered the Mikado by the Pope to visit him in the sacred Vatican. Ancient barriers of sectarianism and bigotry are everywhere being thrown down; the words heretic, heathen and magan are being great. tic, beathen and pagan are being gradually dropped from the vocabulary. No leading preacher today of any denomina-tion recommends hell-fire for all those who do not conform to his particular form of belief. It is doubtful, indeed, if the harshest Calvinist of 200 years ago ever succeeded in convincing himself that eter-nal damnation was the fate of those who lared to differ from him in matters of

This last gracious act of the Pope is of interest to all Christendom as forging another link in the golden chain that is binding all creatures to the gospel of lové. So the true brotherhood of man, as preached by the Redeemer, is being slowly but surely consummated, not by the insistence on degree and greed but by the spread of ogma and creed but by the spread of cond-minded and liberal interpretation.

HE ROYAL HUSTLE.

There is much dissatisfaction among be next batch of court presentees in London over the request of the Lord Chamberlain that trains should be worn much thorter at the next Court to be held by heir Majesties. This edict emanates from he Queen, who is anxious to make the resentations very much more expeditious. he has no liking for a three-hours' stand a one fell swoop, an ordeal which Queen lictorie andured to the very last. ciously the little lady would stand, sur-rounded by her maids of honor, for three solid hours as each courtly beauty passed before her with slow dignity. The long pass a given point!

Queen Mary, however, would like to pee the court shortened to an hour and a half and feels sure that shorter trains would facilitate this very considerably. For the same reason all the handshakings and greetings between friends and rela-tives have been ruthlessly cut out from the King's levees, which are now strictly formal, business-like affairs, very different from those of the Edwardian period. Their britannic Walesties are making a number Britannic Majesties are making a number of drastic changes in court life, and this systematic hustle, this expeditious cold-blooded celerity, is one of them.

TO SPEECHMAKING.

Our Ambassador to Russia, Hon. Cur-Guild of Massachusetts, has been notified the State Department that he must not official banquets, or other occasions, in Petersburg, or elsewhere, make any sches. This cutting off of one of the nest valued perquisites of Ambassador hip will be a serious deprivation to Am assador Guild, for he loves to make peeches, and it may be truthfully said hat his auditors love to listen to him, for a is a spellbinder with the erudition of larvard and the vigor of Billy Bryan.

"The republic of Panama grants to the United States all the rights, power and authority within the zone men-tioned and described . . which the United States would possess and exercise if it were the sovereign of the territory . . . to the entire exclusion of the exercise by the re-public of Panama of any such sovpublic of Panama of any such sov-ereign rights, power or authority."

Was it necessary for Panama to obtain permission from England to sell the Canal Zone, and its sovereignty over the Canal Zone to the United States? Was it necessary for the United States to obtain permission from England to buy it? Did England then have, or has she ever had or has she now any rights, privileges or franchises, direct or indirect, remote or immediate, that made it necessary for either the Republic of Panama or the about their bargain, any more than it would have been necessary for Russia and the United States to consult her about the sale of Alaska, or for Mexico and the Gadsden purchase, or for Spain and the United States to consult her about the pur-chase of Guam, Porto Rico and the Phil-

"Suppose," said Senator Bradley of Kentucky, "at the date the Hay-Pauncefore treaty was negotiated, "the United States had paid for and become the owner of this Canal Zone, had paid the former company for all of its rights, and was absolute monarch of all it surveyed, would our country have considered it necessary to enter into a treaty with Great Britain to mestic affairs?"

In answering, or rather in evading an answer to this unanswerable proposition. Sir Edward Grey harks back to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty made years before, with respect to another canal to be constructed in another country, in which England had some interests.

The Hay-Pauncefote treaty had and has The Hay-Pauncefote treaty had and has no more to do with the construction of the Panama Canal than with the deepening of the channel of the Mississippi River. The Panama Canal was not projected or even thought of when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was made. Hall, the greatest English authority on international law, says

"The principle which has been mentioned as being a sufficient test of the existence of obligatory force or of the voidability of a treaty at a given moment may be stated as follows: Neither party to a contract can make its binding effect dependent at will upon conditions other than those contemplated at the moment when the contract was entered into, and on the other hand a contract cases to be other hand a contract ceases to be binding so soon as anything which forms an implied condition of its obforms an implied condition of its obligatory force at the time of its conclusion is essentially altered. If this be true, and it will scarcely be contradicted, it is only necessary to determine under what implied conditions an international agreement is made.
When these are found, the reasons for which a treaty may be denounced or disregarded will also be found."

A recent and exceedingly able American writer on international law—Hannis Tay

"After the validity of an interna-tional agreement has been firmly es-tablished by the concurrence of such antecedents, it may become voldable through the operation of subsequent events, which might not have such an effect in the case of private contract. So unstable are conditions of interna-tional existence and so difficult is it tional existence and so difficult is it to enforce a contract between states after the state of facts upon which it was formed has substantially changed, that all such agreements are neces-sarily made subject to the general understanding that they cease to be obligatory as soon as the conditions upon which they were executed are essentially aftered."

In the Clayton Bulwer treaty it was not proposed that either the United States or Great Britain should build the canal. It was an agreement that if any persons or governments through whose territory the canal should pass should attempt its con-struction, then the United States and Great Britain would protect them from unjust lence, and that the contracting parties would up their influence to induce such government to facilitate its construction, and procure the establishment of two free ports—one at each end of the canal.

There were many other provisions in the Clayton-Bulwer treaty—none of which were perpetuated in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. After a lapse of many years a futile attempt at canal building in Nicaragus was made by a New York corporation. The Hay-Pauncefote treaty was made in order to get rid of any rights that might far as Nicaragua was concerned.

necessary implication were the provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty transferred

Indeed, after the acquisition of the Canal Zone in Panama it would have been as impossible for the United States to grant by treaty to Great Britain the rights which Sir Edward Grey now claims by vir-tue of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, as it would be for this government to stipulate that England shall have the right to a representative in the Interstate Railroad Com-mission to aid in fixing rates of fare and freight between New York and Los Angeles.

Yet Sir Edward Grey proposes that the United States, having acquired from Panama at a cost of $10,000,000 both the goli and the sovereignty of a ten-mile strip from ecesn to ocean, and having con-structed a ship canal thereon at a cost of $400,000,000, shall now be inhibited from allowing free passage to its constwise ships through the canal, because sixty years ago we made a treaty with England to join in protecting from confiscation seizure or violence a canal through another country to be constructed by private par-

Vattel, in his Law of Nations, section 160, page 104, says:

"Since, in the formation of every treaty, the contracting parties must be vested with sufficient powers for the purpose, a treaty pernicious to the state is null, and not at all obligatory, as no conductor of a nation has the power to enter into engagements to do such things as are capable of destroying the state, for whose safety the government is intrusted to him. The nation itself, being necessarily obliged to perform everything required for its preservation and safety (book 1, section 16, etc.) can not enter into engagements contrary to its indispensable gagements contrary to its indispensable obligations."

Vattel and Grotius and Puffendorf and Hall and Wharton and Taylor-all the great ancient and modern writers on in-ternational law—continental, British and American, are against the contention of Sir Edward Grey. The law of nations is against it. The law of common sense is against it. Academic reasoners who are eager to prostrate themselves at the foot of the English throne may spin a web of sophistries in behalf of the British contention, and denounce as promise breakers and dishonorable men those of their own countrymen who will not accept their sophisms. read the Declaration of Independence that does not know that Eir Edward Grey is wrong. There is not an American worker at bench, or loom or anvil, that would not, if need be, hasten to the nearest recruiting office to tender his services to maintain the right of the United States to favor its own ships passing through its own canal.

Whether American ships engaged in foreign trade shall or shall not be allowed exemption from canal tolls; whether, indeed, coastwise ships shall be thus indirectly subsidized, is a matter of domestic policy itself, and may alter from time to time as circumstances may make it expedient. But it will never need to consult England in the matter, for it is none of her business.

"The United States," said Senator Bradley, in an able speech in the United States Senate on the canal question, "is the only country on the globe that had the courage the manhood and the genius to build this canal. It undertook and has well-nigh com-pleted it. It is our canal, paid for with our own money, constructed by our energy and enterprise, and the people of the United States will never consent that the government of that canal shall be given to foreign countries."

We seek no trouble. Neither do we retreat from it. We only propose to protect our own territory and our own rights. This country has never failed to protect both. Our fathers did not fall and their sons will not fail. The spirit of American liberty and American manhood exists today as it existed in 1776, in 1812, and during the war with Spain. That spirit has lived to live as long as our government shall stand. And by that spirit, coupled with the intelligence and sense of justice of our own people, shall this and all other questions of a similar character affecting the well-being of this country be decided. The United States has never submitted and will never submit to any other nation or court of arbitration any question affecting the authority to govern itself or to control its domestic institutions.

Flints are composed chiefly of silica, and a scientist is now engaged in researches on the compounds of hydrogen and silicon, which explode when mixed with air and ignited, and which could readily be obtained in quantity from flints. These compounds, it is suggested, might be used as a source of energy in place of petrol, which consists of compounds of hydrogen and carobin.

Not only are the subjects presented to be sterilized and denatured, but children under 16 are to be excluded from evening performances, and no complete darkness is to be permitted in the theaters. The Governor of New York has already vetoed a city ordinance establishing similar board of censors.

It would seem that there are many Sen-ators in Sacramento whose sole mission in life is to throw cold water on every promising enterprise started in California. Our matchless climate has attracted to Los Angeles and the surrounding country the greatest outfits of all the biggest movingpicture companies. Seven out of every ten films made in America come from the camps located around Los Angeles. The weekly pay roll from these camps already. amounts to $56,000, while over $3,000,000 has been invested in land, buildings etc.
The moving-picture business is growing

But if our State Legislature starts in to namper and harass the moving-picture peo ple with childish and cramping restric tions, the camps may be forced further afield beyond our State boundaries. This world is a world of give and take. We can give the film-makers natural advantages they can find in no other part of America; in return they can pour a stream of gold into the pockets of our workers.

The moving-picture interests are strongly opposed to the bill of Senator Strow-bridge. To whom does California owe an obligation? To this extensive and growing industry, a boon to the whole southern half of the State, or to an obscure Sen-

The Poet Philosopher.

It's easy to be a success, as thousands of winners confess; no man's so obscure or unlucky or poor that he can't be winner, I guess. And success, Mr. Man, doesn't mean a roll that would stagger a queen, or some gems of your own, or a palace of stone, or a wagon that burns' gasoline. A man's a success, though re-nown doesn't place on his forehead a crown, if he pays as he goes, if it's true that he owes not a red in the dod gasted town. A man's a success if his wife finds comfort and pleasure in life; if she's glad and content that she married a gent reand content that she married a gent re-luctant to organize strife. A man's a suc-cess if his kids are joyous as Katy H. Dids; if they're handsome and neat, with good shoes on their feet, and roses and things on their lids. A man's a success if he tries to be honest and kindly and wise; if he's slow to repeat all the lies he may meet, if he swats both the scandals and neet, if he swats both the scandars and flies. I know when old Gaffer Pete Gray one morning was taken away, by Death, lantern-jowled, the whole village howled, and mourned him for many a day. Yet he was so poor that he had but seldom the half of a scad; he tried to do good in such ways as he could—he was a successful old lad! WALT MASON.

WHAT THESE FIGURES MEAN

An Analysis of Our Last Statement which is of the On New Home, Northwest Utmost Importance to Every Service of Spring and Service Utmost Importance to Every Grants Photometer of Prospective Bank Customer.

AN you analyze for yourself a Bank Statement?

Do you look merely at the SIZE of the figures, as many people do-thinking that these alone represent the strength of the Institution you are considering?

A GREAT Bank, if well conducted, has certain elements of strength not found in smaller Institutions; but mere size is not a criterion of strength in banking—any more than it is in other activities of life.

Below we print our last Statement, and beneath it we analyze the figures. Understand this analysis thoroughly, and you will be able to judge intelligently the condition of any Bank of this type which publishes its Statements—and every Bank, large or small, is required by law to do this.

Leans—While we make Leans from time to time on the strictly high class, conservative, Safe securities prescribed by the rigid California Banking Laws, more than ninety per cent of the amount of money we have invested is loaned on first mortgages on Real Estate in and around Los Angeles. Our loan on any property seldom exceeds 40% of the total value of that property, according to our own very conservative appraise-

Safe Deposit Vaults— Our vaults are worth more than $100,000. But realizing that they are a "slow" asset—by which we mean that they cannot be turned into ready money quickly—we have gradually reduced their estimated value until today they stand on our books at less than half what they cost us—though all the original value remains, with an ever increasing earning power.

evidence of the public's confidence in the German American Trust And Savings Bank. Deposits here have more than doubled in the last five years. Furthermore, our gain in deposits during the last five years is more than twice that of the gain during the five years preceding.

Capital Stock Paid-This amount, One Million Dollars, represents the money of Stock-holders invested in this Institution. It is paid in actual cash—the foundation of the strength and stability of the Bank.

Surplus and Undivided Profits—More than One Million Dollars actual earnings have been left in the Bank by its Stockholders. This is "working capital", in practice performing the same function as the "Capital Stock Paid" item, re-enforcing it and doubling the strength of the foundation of the Bank.

Reserved for Equipment—This item is the remaining portion of the $250,000 which this Bank reserved last July for fitting up its new Banking Home at Spring and Seventh Streets. This is the money of Stockholders which they have "left in the business" for this specific purpose — so that none of our "Surplus and Undivided Profits" need be drawn upon for Equipment—but can remain intact as a bulwark of strength.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Because it was difficult to arrange all of the numerous details for the proper advertisement of Pomona Day, which was to have been held here on Thursday, and because it would better accommodate Aviator Glenn Martin in the arrangement of his "flying dates" in other Southern California towns, the Pomona celebration has been postponed to February 20. This will give Pomona merchants a better opportunity to advertise the event. There will be a big banquet in the evening.

Yesterday, Gerald disappeared. He was gone from 8 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock last night. When he returned, he related a wonderful tale of adventure, how he had been attacked by a gang of youths, blindfolded, gagsed, bound, and then spirited away to a dark cave, where all spoke in whispers. One boy was about to split his tongue, he says, when he broke his bonds, beat up the gang and hurried home, with never a mark to index his story.

Father Basinger was so impressed with the terrible ordeal that he hastened Gerald off to the police station last night to recite the story of the ruffians. Later Lieut. Hermann Kriege had a private conversation with Gerald. He told him about the badge, and what a long day it was sto stay away from home just to fool his parents.

The father was told that the matter would be investigated, and then Lieut. Kriege gave the boy a badge, much brighter than the one most herees wear.

They agreed upon 6 o'clock for the breakfast hour, and Mrs. Quinn resumed her sleep.

When next accounted for, Quinn was sovied at silothes torn and mud-lined. He was unable to talk coherently. Youngster Returns Home With Wondrous Story of Adventure and the Police Wink.

When Gerald Basinger, aged 11 years, asked his father, Samuel Basinger, No. 515 West Pico street, for a badge several days ago, the father told him that only heroes wear badges. That night his mother made him take a hot footbath because he was so quiet.

Yesterday, Gerald disappeared. He was gone from 8 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock last night. This is an announcement that was made yesterday by Albert G. Thurston, who has completed the work of compiling the 1913 city directory.
